

I'm concerned that the FCC is more interested in the voice of money than the voice of the people who are supposed to be protected by communications laws.

Sinclair Broadcasting is apparently being allowed to require its stations to air a clearly political "documentary" on public airwaves during a crucial political season.

I'd like to request the the laws be upheld, that Sinclair Broadcasting either be denied permission to air this political attack video, or that they be required to give equal representation to differing opinions.
